

Winter Kamchatka

Family holidays with an active program

Winter is a nice time to visit Kamchatka. There are less tourists, than in summer, and airfares are cheaper. As for volcanoes and the Pacific ocean, they are always stunning no matter of the season. Moreover in winter you can also go dog sledding and snowmobiling and relax in the thermal springs surrounded by the snow-capped mountains.

Day 4

On this day you will be placed in a sled behind a snowmobile and go along the coast of the Pacific Ocean to Cape Mayachny (tourists are accommodated in passenger sleds for 6-8 people, if necessary, you will be given warm clothes and shoes). Here is the oldest lighthouse of the Far East — "Petropavlovsk", built in 1850.

The cape offers a picturesque view of the Avacha Bay, the picturesque Kamchatka giants. Its height is 2751 m . The volcano is active — the last eruption occurred in 1991. Its crater is filled with frozen lava, over which fumarole vapors often rise.

After a small snack (hot tea with sandwiches), you will continue the excursion to Mount Camel. It is a volcanic extrusion with a height of 1210 m on the pass between the Koryaksky and Avachinsky volcanoes. From here you can enjoy magnificent panoramic views of the surrounding volcanoes, the Nalychevskaya Valley and the Avacha Bay.

By the evening you will return to the hotel, have dinner on your own and relax.

The length of the route is 40 km.

Day 6

You can spend this day on your own: just relax in the hotel and the thermal pool, take a walk around Petropavlovsk-Kamchatsky or book additional excursions. For example, you can ride snowmobiles to the Vilyuchinsky Waterfall, take a horse ride or go skiing at the "Gora Moroznaya" (Rus. for "Frosty Mountain") ski base. For the cost of excursions, see the "Common questions" section.

If the weather is favorable and the group is recruited, we recommend taking a helicopter tour with a flyby of the Southern Group of volcanoes for an additional fee. You will admire the picturesque crater of the active Mutnovsky volcano and the acid lakes of the Gorely volcano. You are waiting for a landing in the caldera of the ancient volcano Ksudach, where you will explore Lake Shtyubel and Klyuchevskoe. During the landing at the Khodutka volcano, you will swim in hot springs.
